JAMES MULLINGER

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

James' background working for GQ magazine in England for fifteen years gives him a unique perspective and insight in to the inner workings of marketing, print media, digital media and social media. Having launched the GQ iPad edition and worked closely with everyone from Jerry Seinfeld to Paul Rudd on digital promotions for the magazine, his tale is unlike any other. Being at the forefront of the publishing and digital revolution gives him a tale that is unlike any you have heard. It will change the way you view your life and work and inspire your conference delegates. And his fish out of water perspective having left all this behind to live and work and thrive in New Brunswick, Canada makes it more uplifting and inspiring than most movies, let alone keynote speeches. Almost every show results in a standing ovation and glowing references are available upon request. He is also well-known for his corporate clean after-dinner stand up sets. Each one is tailored specifically for your audience and he can follow any brief. Satisfaction is guaranteed. James works closely with and supports numerous charities.

TESTIMONIALS

"James did a private gig for us at work last week and he was absolutely amazing! His stories and jokes were hilarious and he did a fantastic job of adapting his act to our organisation. It was an hour of non-stop laughing, just what everyone needed!"

Saint John Energy

"Mr. Mullinger's talent as an award-winning comedian is common knowledge, BUT an unexpected bonus was his unique ability to keep our team's blood pressure in check. Any event organizer understands the ongoing concerns about cancellations, late arrivals, etc., when booking entertainment. James kept our minds at ease through ongoing communications every step of the way. His attentiveness in ensuring the content of his act was in line with our audience was greatly appreciated and a room full of gut-busting laughter during his performance solidified our belief that he was the perfect choice for our event. If you are looking to guarantee your event is an outstanding success, I strongly suggest you book James Mullinger as your entertainment."

Amy McLennan – Marketing & Operations Manager, Master Promotions Ltd.

"James performed at our Annual General Meeting and Conference before a crowd of 230 people. James did a fantastic job of keeping everyone in the room entertained through his story telling and his jokes. James is a great comedian and very easy to work with. I would recommend James to anyone."

Shaunna Scott, Community Business Development Corporations

"Everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves, we laughed from beginning to end and we're still laughing this morning."

Irving Oil

"James has performed both virtually and in-person for the New Brunswick Union (NBU). His virtual performance for our members during the pandemic was a welcome break, where, for an hour, we could forget about what was happening outside our doors and, instead, enjoy some much-needed laughter and levity. His live performance surpassed our lofty expectations and was the perfect way to cap off our first in-person conference in two years."

Andrew McGilligan, New Brunswick Union

TESTIMONIALS

"This week my firm had the BEST holiday party and big kudos go out to James for making it so great. James took the time to get to know some funny things about my colleagues, then also managed to weave in uplifting messages with our current (COVID!) state... all with humour! My cheeks hurt from laughing at the end of his set."

Krista Han, Grant Thornton

"James was relevant, exciting and did not disappoint anyone. The entire group had a fantastic time and I can honestly say, my face physically hurt the next day from laughing and smiling so much! James was great throughout the entire process, from booking to post-show responses. He was very personable and helpful. I have absolutely zero complaints. I can not recommend him enough. If you have the chance to hire this man, whether it's for work, birthday, anniversary, etc, do it! You wont regret it."

Stephanie Pristine Guimond, Wyndham Hotels Resorts

"James' performance was energetic, hilarious, and exactly what we needed. Everyone loved him. He was such a delight to work with from my perspective as a meeting planner. He took time to get to know our organization before the event and socialized with people after the event."

Kendra Shimmin, Insurance Brokers Association of Canada

"I had the pleasure of booking James for a gala dinner in Ottawa for the Canadian Real Estate Association in April of 2019. Within seconds, everyone was laughing at his unique, hilarious content, which showcased the Maritimes and Canada to an audience that consisted of all areas of Canada. James is a dynamic and engaging performer, appealing to an audience of all ages! He even incorporated my son into his act near the end and mingled with the crowd after the show, participating in the photo booth and conversations with many. James' performance received amazing reviews – he was professional and a pleasure to work with. Based on survey results to our membership his performance was high rated by the attendees. I would highly recommend James for any future corporate or charity events – his show does not disappoint!"

Jason A. Stephen, CIPS the President of the Canadian Real Estate Association
